BLAKE'S Joke of the week

 "Where the hell do you think you're going?"
 "I'm going to Las Vegas. You can earn $400 for a blow job there, and I figured that I might as well earn money for what I do to you free."
 The husband thinks for a moment, goes upstairs, and comes back down, with his suitcase packed as well.
 "Where do you think you're going?" she asks.
 "I'm coming with you...I want to see how you survive on $800 a year!!!"

HOW TO AVOID THE CHRISTMAS HANGOVER: YOU DON'T NEED TO GIVE UP DRINK, JUST PICK THE RIGHT TIPPLE

At this time of year, even the most strong-willed of us can indulge in a tippie too many - only to regret it the next morning. So, what is the best way to avoid a hangover? All alcoholic beverages are variations of the chemical ethanol and the liver and brain deal with it the same way, regardless of whether you're quaffing Champagne or downing beer. But your favorite drink may also include ingredients that not only make a difference to how fast alcohol affects you but also how you feel the morning after. Here are the differences between popular alcoholic drinks - and their hangover effect.

Vodka is made by fermenting grains or crops such as potatoes with yeast. It's then purified and repeatedly filtered, often through charcoal, strange as it sounds, until it's as clear as possible.

CALORIES: Because vodka contains no carbohydrates or sugars, it contains only calories from ethanol (around 7 calories per gram), making it the least-fattening alcoholic beverage. So a 35ml shot of vodka would contain about 72 calories.

PROS: Vodka is the 'cleanest' alcoholic beverage because it contains hardly any 'congeners' - impurities normally formed during fermentation. These play a big part in how bad your hangover is.

Despite its high alcohol content - around 40 per cent - vodka is the least likely alcoholic drink to leave you with a hangover, said a study by the British Medical Association.

CONS: Vodka is often a factor in binge drinking deaths because it is relatively tasteless when mixed with fruit juices or other drinks. HANGOVER SEVERITY: 3/10

Whisky or Scotch is distilled from fermented grains, such as barley or wheat, then aged in wooded casks.

CALORIES: About 80 calories per 35ml shot.

PROS: Single malt whiskies have been found to contain high levels of ellagic acid. This powerful acid inhibits the growth of tumours caused by certain carcinogens and kills cancer cells without damaging healthy cells.

CONS: Whisky 'madness' - erratic and unpredictable behaviour - is a common problem with drinking whisky. It's caused by the way most people drink it - neat. Experiments show that among people drinking the same amount of ethanol, those drinking it in the form of spirits, such as whisky, had the quickest and highest peak in the blood alcohol concentration, which occurred less than an hour after drinking began. To slow absorption down, you could take it very much diluted or along with a rich, calorie-dense ingredient such as cream, as in Baileys or Irish coffee.

Whisky also contains lots of congeners, which tend to form during the ageing process in oak casks. A study found that as a result, Bourbon Whiskey is twice as likely to cause a hangover as the same amount of vodka. HANGOVER SEVERITY: 8/10

White wine is made from the fermented juice of grapes stripped of their seeds and skins.

CALORIES: Around 130 calories per 175 ml glass; slightly more in sweeter wines.

PROS: American researchers found that grape flesh contains the chemicals tyrosol and hydroxytyrosol, which help lower artery-clogging LDL cholesterol.

CONS: It's the sulphites formed naturally or added to white wine as preservatives to stop it going brown which are the most likely cause of the 'white wine hangover' many people complain of. Sulphites also carry the risk of an allergic reaction which can worsen symptoms such as a headache, or asthma. White wines also wear away tooth enamel faster, making teeth more sensitive.

HANGOVER SEVERITY: 6/10

Red wine is made from fermented grape juice - but unlike white wine, with the skin and pips included. It's then left to mature for a minimum of three years, during which pigments from the skins leech out and colour the wine red.

CALORIES: Around 120 calories in a standard glass - it's slightly lower in sugar content than white wine.

PROS: Contains more resveratrol - a plant anti-oxidant - than white wine. This helps to prevent blood clots and reduce inflammation, which is now considered to play a key role in heart disease. Also, the pips and skins used in red wines contain tyrosol and hydroxytyrosol, chemicals which help lower artery-clogging LDL cholesterol.

CONS: Red wine drinkers can get worse hangovers than beer or white wine drinkers. Because of the way it's made, red wine produces two types of alcohol - ethanol and methanol. The liver processes the ethanol part of the drink first and leaves methanol until last. As a result, it's likely to be floating around in the body for a lot longer than ethanol, giving you that familiar "morning after" feeling. HANGOVER SEVERITY: 7/10

Beer is made by fermenting barley. Hops are added for flavor and yeast to make the grains ferment into sugar and alcohol.

CALORIES: It's the most calorie-rich alcoholic beverage - just one pint contains between 170 and 200 calories, about the same as seven chocolate fingers biscuits.

PROS: Beer is the least dangerous to drink and makes you feel your drunk the slowest. It has the lowest alcohol content - between 3 and 6 per cent for lager, and up to 8 per cent for ale and stout. A pint also contains more than a quarter of an adult's recommended dose of Vitamin B folate, which stops the build-up of homocysteine chemical linked to heart attacks.

CONS: Beer is high in compounds called purines, which boost the levels of uric acid in the blood. This can form crystals in joints, leading to painful attacks of gout. A 12-year study found that drinking more than two beers a day doubled the risk. Meanwhile, research published in the International Journal of Cancer showed that one pint a day adds a 10 per cent risk of bowel cancer, while two pints a day increases the risk by 25 per cent. HANGOVER SEVERITY: 4/10

Brandy is a spirit distilled from red wine. Fine brandies are aged for extra flavour in wooden casks.

CALORIES: Around 80 in every 35ml shot.

PROS: Because brandy is a distillation of red wine, it contains a high concentration of antioxidants which mop-up 'free radicals' which, it's claimed, can damage the body organs and tissues and lead to deadly diseases. Australian scientists discovered that the antioxidants created during the distilling process mean that 30ml of good brandy would give the equivalent antioxidant hit of the daily recommended intake of vitamin C.

CONS: It could give you the worst headache of all. This was closely followed by red wine, then rum, whisky and gin. Not only does brandy contain at least 40 per cent alcohol, the high quality cask-aged variety is likely to have the highest amounts of congeners, which are formed during the lengthy storage and fermentation process. Brandy contains literally hundreds of different volatile compounds, which gives it the distinctive pleasant smell but also contributes to the hangover. HANGOVER SEVERITY: 9/10

Champagne and sparkling wine are made in roughly the same way as wine - but then more yeast is added and it's left to ferment in the bottle a second time, producing carbon dioxide.

CALORIES: An average 175 ml glass of Champagne contains 133 calories, slightly more than a glass of white wine because syrup is added to improve taste.

PROS: The antioxidants in Champagne may help protect your brain against damage incurred during a stroke and against neurological disorders such as Parkinson's and Alzheimer's diseases, according to a team of researchers from the University of Reading. They found that high levels antioxidants, called caffeic acid and tyrosol, helped protect brain cells from damage.

CONS: The bubbles speed up the absorption of alcohol into the bloodstream. And contrary to popular belief, Champagne won't lift your spirits - alcohol affects brain receptors in the same way, whatever its source.

Alcohol basically works in the same way in the brain receptors as Valium. It depresses brain activity and relieves anxiety. You might think you're in a good mood, but it's more likely the result of alcohol causing "disinhibition", making you more talkative and exhibitionist. HANGOVER SEVERITY: 7/10

METRO ANE SPORTS

And just some tonic to ease your blood pressure, are you sure you'd get rid of Phillips over some of those other coaches out there? Think carefully about that one. Phillips may not be a great figure for tv interviews but I'd take him any time over most teams coaches that are out there. He's one of the best coaches in the league and if he wasn't, ahem, sort of inhibited by a certain someone's interruptions, then he'd do even better.

NFL Week 15
Thursday 7:40 game TV: NFL

Colts (13-0) at Jags (7-6, home 5-2). This one has all the elements to take the edge off a cold evening. It's a division game, its must one win for the Jags, and the Colts "may" rest some key players since they've gained home field advantage thru the playoffs. Jag's players and Coach Del Rio are playing for their futures.

Saturday 7:40 game TV: NFL

Cowboys (8-5, road 3-3) at Saints (13-0). Up until the last two games everyone believed Dallas was the last team in New Orleans schedule that had the ability to upset their run for a perfect season. Here's the catch: a perfect regular season don't matter a whit if you lose in the playoffs, ask the Patriots. Does Dallas have any chance at upsetting the Saints? I think they do.

Sunday Noon Games

If this was the only football game I'd get to see I'd choose celibacy for a year. Browns (2-11, road 1-6) at Chiefs (3-10, home 1-6). I do want Quinn to succeed, just not while I'm watching. I'd rather pour hot sauce over a live lizard and eat it than watch this. Oh, yeah, I've already done that at Mardi Gras.

Here's two games that if played live will ruin your speakers: Texans (6-7, road 3-3) at Rams (1-12, home 0-6), and Cards (8-4, road 5-1) at Lions (2-11, home 2-4). Please, somebody call an ambulance.

Some good middle of the road games to wet your appetite for the afternoon games: Patriots (8-5, road 1-5) at Bills (5-8, home 2-4), Dolphins (7-6, road 3-4) at Titans (6-7, home 4-3), Falcons (6-7, road 1-5) at Jets (7-6, home 3-3), Niners (5-7, road 1-5) at Eagles (9-4, home 4-2), and Bears (5-8, road 1-5) at Ravens (7-6, home 5-2).

3 o'clock games

The game that will be worse than it sounds: Bucs (1-12, road 0-6) at Seahawks (5-8, home 4-2).

And what nobody thought they'd live to see this year, a meaningful game between, drum roll please: Raiders (4-9, road 2-4) at Broncos (8-5, home 4-2). You don't think Denver's now sweating this game, do you? You bet'cha.

Here's your upset special for the week: Packers (9-4, road 4-2) at Steelers (6-7, home 4-2). The Steel Town Players are gonna pack Green Bay's cheese allright.

You want it all goin' for this game, because this one's gonna be the game of the day: Bengals (9-4, road 4-2) at Chargers (10-3, home 4-2). Neither has the position yet to rest its starters so both have to go at it. This is gonna be fun.

Sunday night game

7:40 TV: NBC
Not the game to help keep you warm on a cold December evening, but it'll be fun to see if this is the one that finally gets people fired: Vikings (11-2, road 4-2) at Panthers (5-8, home 3-3). The owner can't complain about what Carolina's done since they've made the dumb decisions to keep the Coach (Fox) and keep and give a humongous pay raise to the QB (DelHomme). How's the bed feel?

Monday Night Football
7:40 TV: ESPN

Everybody in Dallas needs to watch this one and I hope you know which team to cheer for: Giants (7-6, road 3-3) at Redskins (4-9, home 3-3). Since Washington's in our division and we always need a win, we must hope that Snyder's kept as owner of the team. That boy's decisions help make Al Davis look like a crystal ball guru.

Readers Response:

Two Dogs:

Do you think we got "the usual" Cowboys against the Chargers or "not the usual"? We're in the last part of the season so the team that's on the field now is the team we have, do you think it's got what it takes to get to the playoffs? How can Jones think he's putting a top notch offense on the field?

Clay
Burleson

Clay:
I'm not sure what you mean by usual or not usual, but I do agree that what's being put on the field is what we have. Only mediocre and below teams have a more difficult time getting receivers into position than the Cowboys do. I think that's because of the quality of overall receivers, the generally ineffective play calling, and an offensive line that's inconsistent because it's a Grade B line. Jones MUST be happy with his offense because after last season when he promised changes from top to bottom where it mattered, he didn't do anything to upgrade the O line or the play calling. Not sure many agree with him on that.

TD

Two Dogs:

Look you dope, if the Cowboys offense was so bad they wouldn't be putting up the numbers they put up. Why don't YOU learn something about football?

Dane
Dallas

Dane:
Good defenses will let you play all over the field except where it counts, in scoring range. Frankly, Dane, you brilliant specimen of intelligence, I'll take W's over stats.

TD

Two Dogs:

Does Jerry Jones still feel his team has a chance to get to the playoffs? If they do, to have any success? I feel really bad for him, he tries so hard for all of us.

Sally
Ft Worth

Sally:

Jones was recently quoted as saying he still feels very confident because at this time of year last year the Cardinals took off, won their remaining games, made the post season, and, of course, went to the Super Bowl. That should make you feel better. But, and I hate to bark at your ankles darlin', the Cardinals had (and still have) two of the best receivers in the league playing for them, something Dallas doesn't have. Don't feel too bad for JJ, he's the one who's gotten this team together like this.

TD

Two Dogs:

What do you think of Notre Dame's hiring of Cincy's Kelly? Will he be able to bring their school back up where it deserves?

Wilbur
Commerce

Wilbur:

Notre Dame's only been a power in the minds of its administration and alumni, since they haven't been on the football field for a couple of decades. How do you recruit 17 and 18 year olds with references to "the Gipper" and "Knute"? Yes, that's what they do, and no, there ain't a kid out there that knows anything about the Gipper or the Rock. I thought ND showed a total lack of class and respect for other schools and their kids by hitting up Kelly before their bowl game. I thought it also showed the true feelings of Kelly toward Cincy and his players, which was zipola. How do you build a program based on trust and loyalty when you don't have any?

AT&T and introduced a phone a Pico projector. LG and AT&T have launched the projector phone with entirely different and new features for the US market, a Picoprojector on the back side of the phone, 1 GHZ processor and a compact security system with finger print intelligent device.

LG have with bate) with a new, two-year agreement. The projector attachment will be available "in the coming weeks" for $179.99, according to AT&T.

The phone also has GPS, Bluetooth, an accelerometer, a proximity sensor, and an FM radio on board.

THE GOOGLE PHONE

Google is also producing a new phone with a cell network partner. They're going to sell the phone, unlocked, directly to consumers. The general reasoning cited in (anonymously) sourced news reports and blog analysis is that Google wants to stake its claim in the smartphone advertising market, which is growing at a faster rate than standard internet-based advertising.

LG Projector phone has a maximum size QWERTY keyboard with a 16 million 3.2 inch touch screen slider. Auto flashed 5 mega pixel camera and 16 GB microSD card. The LG Projector phone is packed with Windows Mobile 6.5

The manufactures of the Pico Projector are also working with Samsung for the same kind of Projector phone.

Another remarkable feature of LG Projector Phone is the security feature. The LG projector Phone has added a smart finger print sensor that avoids any pin codes and passwords. The finger recognition feature by AuthenTec hasn't been introduced by any other mobile in the market.

According to LG's Web site, the projector is an optional, add-on accessory that will be sold separately. It weighs 1.8 ounces and projects an image eight feet, according to a statement from AT&T.

The phone will be available for $299.99 (minus a $100 mail-in re-

What is this device? It is, supposedly, an unlocked version of the rumored HTC Passion, with a 1 GHZ Snapdragon processor (roughly twice as powerful, at least in specs, as the chip that powers almost every Android device right now, except the Droid), a 3.5-inch OLED screen, and only a trackball-style pointer for physical buttons on the front. Sources have the phone as running on GSM networks, the kind supported by T-Mobile and AT&T in the U.S., and used nearly everywhere in Europe and other foreign destinations.

It would, of course, be running a new version of Android, 2.1, and have its hardware and software designed entirely by Google—not that the G1 and Droid weren't similarly Google-sponsored setups.

Erotic Heritage Museum Gallery II

by Ms. Misha Moré

With 24,000 square feet of space, the museum will display "permanent and featured exhibits designed to preserve wonders of the erotic imagination as depicted through the artistic expression of acts of sex and love.

Many years ago, Harry Mohny, "America's leading erotologist", and Ted McIlvenna of the Exodus Trust, envisioned an art center featuring the very best of erotic art through permanent collections and regularly scheduled featured exhibits.

Museum curator McIlvenna says he has 25 warehouses stocked with erotica and exhibits at the Erotic Museum will change frequently. McIlvenna is a font of information about erotic art and censorship.

All exhibitions are carefully and artistically melded to help people understand that every individual and society has an erotic heritage that should be valued, saved and understood.

The Museum was designed in its entirety as a celebration of the human sexual experience.

The Museum offers a broad spectrum of educational programming and entertainment for all its audiences. They boast "special tours" with docents are available for private parties, intimate gatherings for bachelors and bachelorettes provide a memorable experience to wedding festivities and special workshops are available for those who live in Las Vegas or are visiting and want to explore something not otherwise available in their own communities.

Another feature is their Museum Store which features publications and reproductions produced by the Museum, as well as other books and merchandise related to the permanent and featured exhibitions. (Become a Museum Member and receive a 10% discount, along with many other benefits.)

A special thank you goes out to Sarah Vollmer for giving Me access and Chad, for being My museum tour guide.

Burlesque Starlet Ginger Valentine presents New Workshops, Classes at The Girls Room

There's a new way to get fit in town and it's just a wee bit more glamorous than a sweaty gym. Dallas-based burlesque starlet, Ginger Valentine now offers an entire new curriculum of burlesque classes and workshops at both The Girls Room and Move Studio in Dallas beginning in January.

Fit to Strip Burlesque is offered at The Girls Room in Dallas every Monday in January from 7:30 p.m. – 8:30 p.m. Cost of workshop is $80. Reservations are required, call 214-448-2903 or visit www.thegirlsroom.us to reserve classes. New classes also include Saturday "drop-in" classes from 12 p.m. – 1 p.m. Miss Valentine will also teach a "Bumps and Grinds" workshop at Move Studio on Dec. 19 from 2-4 p.m. and her Burlesque Striptease Basics session meets Mondays in January from 8:30-9:30 p.m. www.movestudio.com for more info.

About Ginger Valentine

Ginger Valentine is one of the premiere names in the Dallas burlesque scene. She has performed throughout the countries in cities such as Austin, Chicago, New Orleans, Minneapolis and Denver. Miss Valentine has over 15 years of performance experience and dance training most notably in classical ballet. She offers a variety of burlesque classes and workshops at The Girls Room in Dallas and Move Studio in Carrollton.

All About Porn: Releases, News and Stars!

DIGITAL PLAYGROUND BEAUTIES JESSE JANE® & RILEY STEELE™

TAG TEAM THE FEBRUARY COVER OF CLUB

and Lisa Ann. Shot on location at a private-school, "Teachers" receives an A+ with its cast of ultra sexy cast. Packed with eight wild sex scenes, "Teachers" graduates into an orgasmic nine person school bus orgy where the students give the teachers the lesson of a lifetime! At Fillmore Bush Academy, extra credit never felt so good!

The Crack Pack

Adam & Eve

First off, weird selection for a porn movie. This release is a spoof of the rat pack and the use of "crack" is referring ass, but it's hard not to associate it with the drug crack.

Anyway, Bree Olson is back for some raunchy fun and her fans are going to love this. I'm not really into Bree Olson, but I can see why others are. She is very girl next door looking and lots of guys like that including the guys of The Crack Pack. They are looking for some sexy girls to spice up their acts and Bree, plus others are willing to get nasty to get their attention.

There are five tantalizing scenes that will leave breathless or wanting to do something to take your breathe away. Bree fans get to see her in two scenes with my favorite being the one with Alexis Texas and beautiful bubbly ass.

My favorite star on this release is Sara Stone with her curvy physique and brownish red hair. Kira Lynn and her sultry looks also caught my attention. With this release you also get a second disc with includes a sex scene with Ron Jeremy not in the first disc, plus a photo galley, another bonus sex from another Adam & Eve release, plus lots more. Fans of the 50's, burlesque and old style night club singing will really like this new release. -Gil

In their first layout together, Jesse Jane and Riley Steele capture the heat from their acclaimed scenes in Digital Playground's Teachers!

Exclusive Digital Playground contract girls Jesse Jane® and Riley Steele™ grace the February cover of CLUB magazine. The scintillating issue goes on sale December 8 and features the first published layout with the sexy blondes together. Within the pages of CLUB, superstars Jesse Jane and Riley Steele capture the passion and heat from their acclaimed scenes in Digital Playground's bestselling movie "Teachers". Dan Davis, Editor-in-Chief of Magna Publishing Group says, "Digital Playground's gorgeous duo of Jesse Jane and Riley Steele was a natural for CLUB. The entire staff here collectively fell in love with the cover, as well as the amazing girl / girl layout the girls shot for us. This, coupled with the exclusive and extensive 'Teachers' on-the-set report in the issue, will make the February 2010 CLUB one of the year's best sellers for sure."

View the "Teachers" trailer at www.digitalplayground.com/mov/teachers.html

Joone, Digital Playground's founder says, "The chemistry between Jesse and Riley is undeniable. Through their movie scenes, photo shoots and live appearances, the girls capture the essence of being a star."

Jesse Jane exclaims, "I love Riley and am so happy we are able to share the cover of CLUB." Riley Steele adds, "I've dreamed of being on a cover with Jesse since the moment I first met her at the 'Pirates' signing in San Diego. I can't stop looking at our layout. It's so hot!"

"Teachers", directed by Robby D., stars Digital Playground's exclusive contract girls Jesse Jane, Riley Steele, Stoya™, and Katsuni, plus Jenna Haze

Houston Elects Lesbian Mayor Annise Parker

Gay-rights advocates in the U.S. are celebrating the election of Annise Parker as the mayor of Houston, Texas. Parker, a long-time gay activist turned politician took 53% of the vote in America's fourth-largest city.

Saturday's election made Houston the largest city in the USA to choose a gay mayor. Annise Parker's victory came in a state that overwhelmingly voted to outlaw gay marriage four years ago and in a city where voters have rejected offering benefits to the same-sex partners of government employees.

"The fact that an openly gay candidate wins for mayor in the nation's fourth-largest city, in the South, in Texas, shows that when Americans get to know gay people as people, not as stereotypes, their resistance to treating gay people equally reduces," said Evan Wolfson, director of Freedom to Marry, which advocates for legalizing gay marriage.

The Houston Chronicle chalked up her win to her long history in local politics and her grassroots network:

"She was the policy wonk, a community activist who had won hard-fought elections for city council and controller and who had been a city official for a dozen years — and who, by the way, happened to be gay. Although she wasn't a particularly exciting candidate, she ran a cohesive, focused campaign that relied on her years-long practice of grass-roots politics and her lengthy experience grappling with neighborhood issues at City Hall. She sought the endorsements of the same heavyweight political groups that swung in behind her opponent, but when the checks went the other way she countered with what turned out to be a more potent coalition of interest groups: liberals and progressives, feminists and gays, civic activists and moderate Republicans, particularly female Republicans.

A number of anti-gay flyers did sully the campaign but many people say that they didn't have much of an impact on the race. From the Advocate:

"This is an important milestone for our country, but it's equally important to know voters in Houston chose Annise even after a flurry of antigay campaigns designed to divide and distract voters," Victory Fund president Chuck Wolfe wrote in an e-mail immediately after Parker's win. "This time the extremists failed. Houstonians rejected their tactics and voted for the most experienced and competent candidate to lead this city forward."

"Hollywood is full of secretly gay actors," says Colin Firth

Actor Colin Firth says that Hollywood is full of secretly gay actors because the movie industry forces stars to keep their true sexuality

Firth, who plays a homosexual college professor in his new movie, 'A Single Man', insists that it's easy for a "straight" man to take on a gay part in a film. But Hollywood is a much more difficult place for a gay actor, because they are forced to stay 'in the closet' to survive in the film business

, Parade magazine online reported. "If you're a straight actor who takes on the role of a gay man, it's obviously not the same as being one in this business. I think there are still some constraints against being openly gay. It is to do with whatever sexual taboos are in place. In Hollywood, I know that some actors are far more circumspect about keeping that secret hidden. There are not a lot of openly gay leading men," the actor told the magazine.

Firth is not the only star speaking out about the subject of gay stars in Hollywood, fellow British actor Rupert Everett recently revealed he has been shut out of the movie business since he 'came out.'

Everett also claims there are many high profile gay actors who are forced to keep their true sexuality a secret in order to protect their careers.
